
The Priesthood-Holder Invitation Email

Send this ONLY after the Bishop has given his go-ahead — and send the Bishop this exact email first, so he sees every word before anyone else does. Two versions are below: a primary one, and a shorter one if you'd rather keep it brief. Fill in the brackets. The install instructions referenced at the bottom are in the Install Guide document, which you can paste in or attach.

VERSION A — THE PRIMARY EMAIL (WARM, COMPLETE, HONEST)

Subject: A small favor, brethren — testing a faith app I built (with the Bishop's blessing)

Brethren,

I'm writing to ask a small favor, and I want to be upfront from the first line: this is a personal project of mine, not a Church program, and I'm reaching out with Bishop [Last Name]'s blessing to do exactly this.

Over the past while I've built a faith app called Milk Before Meat. It's patterned on the way the Savior actually ministered to people — meeting them right where they are, pointing them to the goodness of God, never pressuring anyone, and always keeping a real person within reach. It's built to be honest about what it is: it tells every user, every time it opens, that it is not God and cannot answer a prayer, and that they should take their prayers and their worship straight to Heavenly Father. It is not an official Church product, and it says so plainly.

What I need is honest priesthood feedback before it goes any further. You're the men I trust to tell me the truth — if something feels off, if the tone is wrong, if anything could lead a person astray, I want to hear it. That's the whole point of this test.

Here's what I'm asking, and it's genuinely small:

- Install it and use it for about two weeks (the steps are below / attached — it takes about two minutes to set up on either an iPhone or an Android phone).
- Poke at it honestly. Try it the way a seeker might, or a skeptic, or a friend who's hurting.
- Tell me what you think — what works, what worries you, what you'd change. A text or a quick note is plenty.

There's no pressure to say yes, and no hard feelings if the timing isn't right for you. If you're willing, it would mean a great deal to me, and it genuinely makes the app better for the people it's meant to reach.

If you have any questions at all — including “wait, is this really okay?” — ask me, or ask the Bishop. I've walked this through him and through [Rich / the Elders Quorum] before sending a single word of this.

Thank you, brethren. I'm grateful for you.

[Cameron's full name] [Phone number] [Email]

VERSION B — THE SHORT EMAIL (IF YOU'D RATHER KEEP IT TIGHT)

Subject: Two-week favor with the Bishop's blessing — testing my faith app

Brethren,

Quick and honest ask. I've built a faith app called Milk Before Meat — it's patterned on how the Savior ministered: meet people where they are, point them to God, never pressure, always keep a real person within reach. It's a personal project of mine, not a Church product (and it says so every time it opens), and I'm sending this with Bishop [Last Name]'s blessing.

I'd be grateful if a few of you would install it, use it for about two weeks, and tell me honestly what you think — what works, what worries you, what you'd change. Setup takes about two minutes on iPhone or Android; steps are below.

No pressure and no hard feelings if the timing's wrong. Questions of any kind — including “is this really okay?” — come straight to me or to the Bishop.

Thank you, brethren.

[Cameron's full name] · [Phone] · [Email]

A FEW NOTES FOR YOU, CAMERON (NOT PART OF THE EMAIL)

Keep the brackets honest — actually fill in the Bishop's name and your contact info before sending; a half-filled template undercuts the trust the email is trying to build.

Send it to a small, trusted group first, not a mass blast. A handful of priesthood holders who will actually use it and give real feedback is worth more than thirty names who skim it. (It also fits the careful, small-pool approach that keeps the whole thing wise during testing.)

If any of them have an iPhone, install is effortless — the app is live on the public App Store (apps.apple.com/app/id6783621048), no invite needed. If they're on Android, you'll need their Google account email to add them as a tester first — so it's worth asking “iPhone or Android?” before you send, and tailoring the install steps to each person. The Install Guide explains both.

And remember the standing courtesy: the Bishop sees this email, word for word, before anyone else does. Forward it to him first with a short note — “Here's the exact invitation I'd like to send; I wanted you to see every word first.” That one habit is what carries his trust all the way through.